

Philosophy Values – Respect

Texts to Support This Activity

- 'Great Joy' by Kate DiCamillo
- 'A Chair For My Mother' by Vera B. Williams
- 'The Way I Act' by Steve Metzger
- 'The Recess Queen' by Alexis O'Neill
- 'Interrupting Chicken' by David Ezra Stein
- 'Do Unto Otters' by Laurie Keller
- 'The Really Rude Rhino' by Jeanne Willis

Teacher Prompts

- What is respect?
- What does respect look like?
- What does respect sound like?
- What does respect feel like?
- How have you shown respect?
- Where have you seen respect?
- Who should show respect?

Philosophy Values – Respect

Showing Respect	Not Showing Respect	Unsure

Cut up the scenarios below and stick them where you think they belong in the table.

using your manners	being on time
looking at someone when they speak to you	looking after yourself
being friends with everyone	hurting others with your words
treating someone how you want to be treated	making a funny joke about someone else
whispering quietly so your teacher can't hear you	doing what your parents ask when they ask you
telling my friends what they should do	being careful with class equipment
holding the door open for another person	dropping rubbish outside

Cut up the scenarios below and stick them where you think they belong in the table.

using your manners	being on time
looking at someone when they speak to you	looking after yourself
being friends with everyone	hurting others with your words
treating someone how you want to be treated	making a funny joke about someone else
whispering quietly so your teacher can't hear you	doing what your parents ask when they ask you
telling my friends what they should do	being careful with class equipment
holding the door open for another person	dropping rubbish outside